Al Ain University organizes a visit to the Public Prosecution

Al Ain University (Al Ain Campus) represented by the College of Law and in cooperation with the Public Prosecution Office organized a visit for law students to the Prosecution Complex (Al Ain Branch).

The students had an opportunity to meet, His Excellency Counselor Salem Al Kuwaiti (Director of the Public Prosecution Department in Al Ain Region), where he reviewed the most important duties of the members of the Public Prosecution Office, and how to follow up cases from the first procedure, which is receiving the communication from the police station, until disposing of the criminal case by issuing a referral order to the competent court.

The students attended one of the investigation sessions, making a tour of the Public Prosecution departments, and being acquainted with the duties and tasks of each department.

The visit came in order to link the theoretical side with the practical side, by examining the procedures of Public Prosecution in the preliminary investigation stage.

It is worth mentioning that Prof. Mustafa Qandil, Dean of the College of Law, thanked Al Ain Prosecution Complex for receiving the students, and for their efforts in facilitating the students' academic journey by linking the theoretical aspects with the practical ones.
