The College of Engineering wins the College Football Championship

The Deanship of Student Affairs at Al Ain University concluded the College Football Championship, held at its Al Ain campus, with teams from several colleges participating. Three teams from the College of Engineering competed alongside teams from the Colleges of Pharmacy, Education, and Business.

In the final match, the College of Engineering team faced the College of Education team, and the College of Engineering secured an exciting 4-3 victory, claiming the championship trophy.

At the end of the event, the winning teams were honoured, with the first-place team receiving a special award for their outstanding performance, while the second-place team was also recognized for their tremendous effort throughout the competition.
